

Quick Urban Planning Ideas

Is time of the essence? Your organisation is considering an intricate, time-consuming process for the development of an area of interest. The first meeting with the responsible stakeholders is rapidly approaching and you urgently need a visual aid that will help you make your case and serve as a basis for going forward. You realise that there is no time to get competing firms to submit designs as this needs at least 6 months. You could opt for a company to do a study, but even that would require about a month. You are out of time. Who do you turn to?

SEILER & SEILER can provide you with a draft urban plan within seven to ten days. This draft is the ideal document to serve as a basis for discussions. The well thought out plan with its rough sketched design is the ideal basis for making decisions about how the project should proceed.

We discuss your aims and vision and you provide us with the important documents we need to get started. After two working days you will already be able to view the first draft, which can be modified as needed till at most 2 days before the meeting.

You can present your idea at the meeting, having had at least 2 days to refine your presentation using the completed documentation, which includes sketches and short descriptions of the various elements of the plan.

- This is a service for public authorities or for architectural or real estate companies.
- The quick draft is a decision-making basis for the developmental process of an area, a street, a complex or a plot of land. Your local knowledge of the area will serve as the basis.
- The first draft is delivered after two working days. You have the possibility to influence the design on days two and six, leaving you time to deal with other projects.
- You will receive all documentation at least 48 Hours before your deadline to allow you enough time to prepare your presentation optimally. Digital presentation of the documentation can be provided upon request.
- The document will be prepared with the appropriate level of detail, short descriptions, sketches, free space / built area, strategic framework and timeframe from design to completion
- This service takes from seven to ten days and costs from CHF 3'500 – CHF 6'500.
